

Strength Through Representation: One Faculty Slate

Irene Mulvey

Candidate for AAUP President

I am a mathematician and faculty activist.

I have been active in the AAUP at the campus level since 1989, serving multiple terms as president of Fairfield University's AAUP chapter and multiple terms as chief negotiator on the Handbook Committee that negotiates the faculty contract. I have been active at the state and national level since 2007, serving as Connecticut State Conference-AAUP President (two terms, termed out) and Treasurer (multiple terms). At the national level, I have served multiple terms on the AAUP's governing Council, the Council's Executive Committee, Committee A on Academic Freedom and Tenure, Committee T on College and University Governance, the Membership Committee, and the Committee on Organization of the Association.

In June 2020, I was elected as President of the AAUP on a platform that included a commitment to racial justice and a promise to take steps to address systemic and institutional racism in the AAUP and in the academy, and I am proud of the AAUP's ongoing Racial Justice Initiative and the steps we have taken. The AAUP's new Center for the Defense of Academic Freedom, funded by a $1.5M grant from the Mellon Fund, was acquired under my leadership. I oversaw the affiliation with the American Federation of Teachers, that took effect on August 1, 2022, and am currently serving on the re-set Partnership Implementation and Coordination Team (PICT) defined in the affiliation agreement and intended to make the affiliation as successful and effective as possible.

My first faculty position was as a Visiting Assistant Professor at Swarthmore College for three years. Following that, I was hired into a tenure-track position at Fairfield University where I taught for 37 years until retiring in June 2022.
